

This house in PJ brilliantly repurposes roof tiles into a moving front facade

 Kathleen Fernandez
April 14, 2016

LIKE EXPATGO ON FACEBOOK  Like Yie Han, Sherman Lye and 35,653 others like this.

Share This Post :

152 SHARES         Like 1.2k READS

This is part of an ExpatGo editorial series featuring creative architecture designs in Malaysia. Follow us on Facebook or register for our weekly e-newsletter to keep updated.

Located in the older suburbs of Petaling Jaya, the original old dilapidated house was purchased by the owners as they wanted to rebuild it into a new family home.

Living and dining room

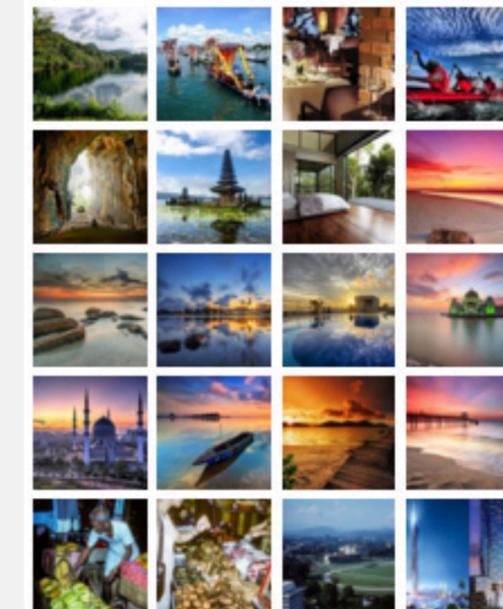

Featured Story

An inside look at this artfully designed bungalow on Gasing Hill

Instagram

 @expatgomy
Covering Malaysia with local insight and a global perspective.

Load More...

 Follow on Instagram

Recent Stories

Absentee voting information for U.S. citizens in Malaysia

10 unique concept restaurants in Johor Bahru that you need to visit

12 Airbnb properties around Malaysia with incredible views